

About the Author.

Suzanne Collins began her career in 1991 by writing for children's television shows. She became interested in writing books when thinking about Alice falling down the rabbit hole. As a New York City gal, falling down a rabbit hole seemed unlikely, and using this premise wrote a book about falling down a manhole! She has received much acclaim for her recent novel, Hunger Games, reviewed here! Ms. Collins is married and lives with her husband, three cats, a son and a daughter.